

LeAnn Pearson Marrale

Executive Business and Personal Life Coach Coaching | Strategist | Consulting

LeAnn offers over 20 years of vast experience in the non-profit sector and corporate business. Known for being an articulate passionate communicator, LeAnn desires to equip leaders and their organizations to have a greater impact in stewarding resources and talent. With a with a certification in Business/Life Coaching, and an education in Communications, LeAnn offers clients her strategic skills to enhance and develop their goals with practical tools, resources and connections.

LeAnn's breadth of experience ranges from family owned-and operated businesses to 10 years of domestic and international mission work. She began her career in an inner-city ministry located in the heart of Atlanta, Georgia. Seven years of directorial leadership with the ministry brought a wealth of exposure to effective team management, growth development, and successful implementation of strategic planning. Building on her first-hand experience, LeAnn continues to pursue her desire to see organizations and individuals thrive in their identity, call and mission. LeAnn offers coaching and strategic business development skills to organizations throughout the world through strategic planning, communication strategy, and the development of strong team dynamics.

Since 2012, LeAnn is the President of Rebuild America, Inc. that is committed to preserving, developing and operating low-income housing for senior citizens throughout America.

LeAnn pursues the promise of life and life abundantly. Raised in Montana, LeAnn cherishes her experience from growing up in the beauty of the Rocky Mountains to having the grand opportunity to travel across the world. Atlanta, Georgia was home for the last 19 years, except for the nearly 3 years she lived in Paris, France. Newly married, she now resides in southwest Virginia with husband, David and 1 year-old Weimaraner puppy, Luke, taking every opportunity to enjoy the outdoors.
